*Chosen to 2007 Super Lawyers

aggressive litigators who embody solid experience in individual and complex multiparty, occupational/environmental, health and personal injury cases. The majority of the firm's cases are referred from attorneys who have confidence in the firm's integrity, expertise and solid work ethic.

The case that best exemplifies Coon's resolve is Rowe v. BP North America. This case resulted from an explosion at the BP refinery in Texas City, Texas with the consequence of the wrongful death of both of Ms. Rowe's parents. As lead counsel for the case, Coon reached a settlement in November 2006 that included an agreement to release seven million pages of sealed corporate documents and a mandate of a minimum of $32 million in charitable contributions.

Likewise, James A Morris Jr. received national recognition for his precedent-setting verdict in a Philadelphia court that involved a hormone replacement therapy case.

"Our attorneys are not afraid to fight in court for our clients," says Coon. "Inclusion in 2007's Super Lawyers® recognized not only Jim's and my efforts, but those of all of the talented attorneys associated with my firm."

The extensive use of advanced technology, financial resources and a national team of talented, aggressive attorneys have made Coon and his firm one the country's most respected trial litigation firms. Coon passionately focuses on workers' rights to a secure workplace, women's safety, representation of unions and their members and fighting those who limit an individual's right to his or her day in court.

Coon's recognition this year includes the Steven J. Sharp Public Service Award, the American Association of Justice's highest honor; the Clarence Darrow Award; and the USMFW Humanitarian Award.
